Dear Nicholas Jennings,

It is with pleasure that I write on behalf of Rosalind Piedrasanta. She is a very talented, thoughtful and kind young woman. Rosalind was in my Drawing With Wet Media class this past fall at Roski School of Art & Design where I teach part-time. I have been teaching Painting & Drawing at the college level for over nineteen years at the California College of Arts, San Francisco Art Institute and UC Berkeley before moving to Los Angeles area.

Rosalind is very passionate and committed to her work over the course of the semester working with her she created very ambitious and creative pieces for the class always putting her best work forward and within the time frame that the assignments were due. Her drawing skills are very strong and her character design is bold and distinctive with an expressive narrative quality. She would make an outstanding candidate for any entry or intern position at Cartoon Network. I think she would do exceptionally well at character development.

I have a solid understanding of working with young talent and can spot exceptionally gifted individuals who are excelling at their full potential. Rosalind was definitely in the top tier of students I have worked with over the last five years. Her curious and conscientious attention to detail and generous personality and spirit made her a delight to work with. She was very open to feedback on her work and incorporated it thoughtfully into her work. I heartily recommend her without any reservations. A creative team would be lucky to have her on their roster of talent.

Sincerely,

Jovi Schnell
